

World Coffee Research Checkoff Program

Ideas for how to communicate about the Checkoff Program with your roaster clients

We encourage you to promote the Checkoff Program to your clients and share your role as a partner in our work. Below are resources and ideas to get you started.

How does the WCR Checkoff Program work?

The Checkoff Program is a way for Suppliers and Roasters/Retailers to invest pennies per pound (cents per kilogram) to ensure the future of coffee. The contribution is calibrated to roasters' and retailers' purchase volume and built into the cost of green coffee.

Limitations: Because of the high cost associated with administering the Checkoff program, it is available only for roasters/retailers purchasing more than 50,000 pounds of green coffee per year from participating suppliers. See full membership fee schedule at the link below.

Ideas for how to communicate about the WCR Checkoff program

- Sales Reps can discuss WCR Checkoff program during sales calls or meetings with new clients
- Share a Welcome Packet with prospective and new clients, including information about WCR and the Checkoff Program
- Add language about WCR to your website sustainability page
- Write a blog post about the Checkoff Program and/or WCR's recent work
- Send an email inviting current roaster clients to sign up for the Checkoff program
- Highlight the partnership with WCR and the option to participate in the Checkoff program option in your client newsletter
- Post on social media channels about your partnership with WCR and the option to sign up for the Checkoff Program a few times per year

Sample language for sales calls

(should be adapted to each company's process)

- “Are you interested in learning about how an additional penny per pound (cent per kilogram) can contribute to essential agricultural science in support of coffee and coffee farmers?”
- “Would you be interested in learning more about some of the partnerships we have that enable you to add impact to your green coffee purchases?”
- “We partner with World Coffee Research, a nonprofit research organization that uses collaborative agricultural science to ensure the future of coffee. They create, test, and distribute better plants to farmers around the world.”
- “When you sign up for the WCR Checkoff Program, you’ll automatically contribute pennies per pound (cents per kilogram) to World Coffee Research each time you buy coffee from us.”

(for your website, welcome packet, sales call language, or newsletters)

World Coffee Research is a nonprofit research organization that allows coffee roasters to invest in collaborative agricultural science to create the future of coffee. WCR works urgently to make better plants available and accessible to farmers to enhance coffee productivity, profitability, quality, and climate resilience and to meet rising demand while also safeguarding natural resources.

The challenges facing coffee are bigger than any one company can solve alone. Through collective investment in agricultural R&D, World Coffee Research creates new varieties that address multiple business and sustainability risks to ensure a vibrant coffee sector. Every coffee business—large and small alike—is called to do their part and invest in creating the future of our industry.

Sample language for client email (or other):

Hi (First Name),

We're thrilled to invite you to join our partnership with World Coffee Research \(WCR\) to fund essential agricultural science to create the future of the coffee. We feel passionately that WCR's work is helping build a more sustainable specialty coffee supply chain.

When you join the WCR Checkoff Program, every pound you buy helps improve the ‘goodness’ of coffee—how good it tastes, how good it is for the planet, and how good it is for the people who grow it.

How It Works

You choose to donate pennies (cents) to WCR for every pound (kilo) of coffee you buy from us, and we'll match it. It's that easy. Sign up here.

About World Coffee Research

World Coffee Research is a nonprofit research organization that allows coffee roasters to invest in collaborative agricultural science to create the future of coffee. WCR works urgently to make better plants available and accessible to farmers to enhance coffee productivity, profitability, quality, and climate resilience and to meet rising demand while also safeguarding natural resources.

WCR works in producing countries that are critical for origin diversity to improve their systems for creating and delivering new varieties to farmers. When you support WCR, you are helping to address the climate crisis, mitigate supply and business risks, and ensure the future of high-quality coffee.

We're impressed with the results World Coffee Research has already delivered, which is why we match every contribution you make, doubling the impact of your funds.
